

Tassels Continues Conference

Class Presidents Lead Discussion On Organizations

● THE THIRD meeting in a series of Leadership Conferences, sponsored by Tassels, will be held tomorrow evening at 8:15 p.m. in Government 1. Topic for this meeting will be "Organizational Problems," with William R. Merriam from the Hospital Equipment Campaign Headquarters as guest speaker.

Using illustrative charts, Mr. Merriam will outline the development of a hypothetical "ideal" organization from its beginning to its establishment on campus. Constitutions, executive arrangements, and committees will be discussed.

Following the talk, open discussion will be led by a student panel consisting this week of the four class presidents, Jim Pughe, senior class; Maryanna Dotson, junior class; Bill Howard, sophomore class; and Jim Speaks, freshman class.

These conferences, organized for the purpose of promoting interest in the administration of campus organizations and training future student leaders, are sponsored by Tassels, sophomore women's honorary organization, under the direction of Morrie Bader.

At the conference last week, Henry G. Roberts, associate professor of Speech, spoke on "Parliamentary Law" and its importance in campus organizations. Larry Woodward, advocate of the Student Council; Reid Baldridge, president of the Inter-Fraternity Council; Gwen Loomis, president of the Religious Council; and Sue Berger, president of the Women's Athletic Association, led the panel discussion.

In opening, Professor Roberts stressed the "unimportance" of parliamentary law. Pointing out the dangers of too much emphasis on (See TASSELS, Page 6)

Strong, Staughton Propose Program For "Game Night"

● A "GAME NIGHT" will be sponsored by Strong and Staughton Halls under the Strong Hall Dormitory Council on March 11, announced Rosemary Glenn, president of the Strong Hall Council.

Heading the committees for the affair are Lynn Mateson, ticket committee; Rosemary Glenn, publicity; Sue Stokes, table arrangements; and Sally Barrows, prize subscriptions.

The evening will include bridge, bingo and checker games from 8 to 11 p.m. in the Strong Hall Lounge and game room. All University women are invited to attend the function.

The admission will be 35 cents per person, the proceeds of which will be given to the University Hospital.

Door prizes as well as individual game prizes will be awarded during the evening.

Club Asks Guests To Square Dance

● SQUARE DANCE Group will have its regular meeting Thursday evening, from 8-10, in Building J. Marjorie Tate, assistant professor of Women's Physical Education, will be the guest director. Rosemary Glenn, Pat Ludwig, and Joe Schenck are the callers. All students are invited to attend.

Grind Subscribers Got Mail Refunds

● GRIND SUBSCRIPTION refunds will be mailed to the subscribers without the necessity of making application, announced ex-editor Sherie Simon last Saturday. "Too many people came running up the stairs," she explained, "so we had to change the system."

All advertisers have either paid or have announced their intention of paying, she continued. None mentioned the letter sent by the University stating that the Grind was unrecognized at the University.

Editor Cullen Changes Form Of Mecheleci

● INTRODUCTION of a magazine format to the Mecheleci, official publication of the School of Engineering, was announced last week by Frank Cullen, newly appointed editor of the magazine.

Lack of spot news and the limitations of makeup possibilities in the small-sized paper are the chief reasons for discarding the old newspaper format, Cullen explained. One of the principle innovations will be a photographic cover by staff photographer Kenneth Folke.

"We believe that the change will make the Mecheleci more attractive to both readers and advertisers," Cullen emphasized. "Although the magazine has a circulation of 1,000 among students and 750 among alumni, advertisers have been discouraged by the monotonous presentation."

The publication will continue to carry news on the engineering school and engineering societies, but will emphasize feature material. More pictures will be included as well as more cartoons.

Cullen succeeded Marjorie Rhodes as editor.

Veterans' Wives To Organize Club

● TENTATIVE PLANS TO organize an auxiliary club for the wives of the members of the Student Veterans Club have been outlined. Wives interested should contact Mrs. William Rockwood, business phone, REpublic 6700, extension 4400, or at home, LINcoln 7214.

Reading Room Roamings

Library Loungers Create Unique Social Order Prompted By Boredom, Affection, Desperation

By GERRY LIEBLICH

● ANY MARIJUANA SMOKERS on the loose who happen to stray into Lisner Library would probably think themselves in a Depot of Displaced Persons.

If you allow your eyes to wander while studying, you're bound to see any number of unusual things. You'll be sure to see some wide-eyed student giving you the "twice-over"—but never fear. It's probably one of those who couldn't for the life of him "get a fourth" in the Student Club, so reluctantly decided to gather up the books that weren't swept away, and betake himself to the Library.

He'll stand at the door of each reading room looking for someone with whom to chat and write notes. If he stares extra long at you, it's probably because you look sociable, not because you have two heads.

This poor soul will wander on until some other scholar assails him with a "You've studied long enough, how about a game of bridge?" This will be answered with a "3 no-trump smile" an exeunt.

Then, there's always the lucky couple, one of whom is left-handed. What bliss! They can hold hands

Quartets Will Sing For Drive

Barbershop Singers Give Benefit Show March 1 in Lisner

● FOR THE FIRST time since its organization in 1945, the local chapter of SPEBSQSA, the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America, Incorporated, will present a public performance locally.

This debut will be held on Saturday, March 1, in Lisner Auditorium at 8:30 p.m., and proceeds will be donated to the University Hospital fund. Tickets may be purchased in the Lisner box-office, and prices range from $1.20 to $2.40.

Other chapters of the nationwide organization will also perform during the evening. Among these will be the Withered Four, of Patterson, New Jersey.

Dean Elmer Louis Kayser, of the University, will be Master of Ceremonies.

Mass singing by all the quartets, led by Dr. Robert H. Harmon, University physician, director of the Glee Clubs, and musical director of the society, will be one of the events of the evening.

The songs to be sung include "Sweet Adeline," "My Eveline," "Tell Me You'll Forgive Me," "After Dark," "Class Harmony," and "Goodbye My Coney Island Baby."

Another feature to be presented is a minstrel show, under the direction of John B. Cullen.

The first chapter of the SPEBSQSA was organized by Owen Cash, of Tulsa, Oklahoma, who in 1938 invited a few of his friends to share "the only freedom not taken away by women or the government." Since that time, the organization has grown rapidly, now claiming 255 chapters in the United States and Canada.

Among the prominent members is President Truman, who is a member of the Kansas City chapter. The President has been invited to attend Saturday's performance.

One of the local quartets participating will be the Potomac Clippers, who recently won third place in the Atlantic Seaboard Competition in Baltimore. They will feature "Heart of my Heart."

Veterans Will Get No Cash Returns

● STUDENT VETERANS are reminded by the Veterans' Education Office that they cannot be reimbursed for books or supplies purchased for cash after a certificate of eligibility has been issued to them. Requisition forms are available in the Office of Veterans' Education, Building Q, for use in obtaining necessary books and supplies.

Mademoiselle College Board Appoints Four

● "MADEMOISELLE" magazine has announced that Ann Pasternack, Maxine Balett, Phyllis Crockett, and Camilla Goldsborough have recently been accepted to membership on its 1947 College Board.

Girls selected for membership on the College Board are offered the possibility of working in the magazine's New York offices for a month. The twenty board members who excel in their assignments during the year, become "Guest Editors" of the August college issue. This year they will also participate in "Mademoiselle's" first annual Career Conference.

The College Board is composed of students from almost every major campus in the country and offers numerous opportunities to girls interested in furthering their careers.

Students, chosen for the board on a competitive basis, submit four assignments each year, report all college activities and items of interest, and keep "Mademoiselle" abreast of campus trends. All material that is published is paid for.

VA Warns Vets To See Advisors

● VETERANS Administration has suggested that student veterans familiarize themselves with the schedules and locations of their respective training officers.

Training officers are being consulted daily by veterans who do not fall under their supervision, resulting in a loss of efficiency of the services rendered.

"Ladies" Rehearsals Proceeding

Original Comedy "Ladies in Hades" Finishes Casting

● CHORUS REHEARSALS for "Ladies in Hades" began last night, marking the completion of casting for the original musical comedy.

With book and lyrics by Cue and Curtin Director Floyd L. Sparks, and music by former student George Bishop, "Ladies in Hades" is the first original production to be offered by Cue and Curtin. Production is slated for March 5, 6, 7, and 8.

The complete cast, as announced by Mr. Sparks, includes Pete Kouzes and Priscilla Hart in the romantic leads of Robert W. Faust and Marguerite.

Comedy leads of Valentine Smythe and Martha will be played by Paul G. Cantor and Jody Miller. Bill McClellan has been cast as Mephistopheles.

Other cast members include John Burke as Fritz, Miriam Weinstein as Betty, Robert Keefe as Jones, John Mitchell as Nero, Nelson Wurx as Henry VIII, Barbara Davis as Cleopatra, and Quin Davies as Lucrezia Borgia.

Napoleon will be portrayed by Bruce Skaggs, Alexander by Walter Ludwig, Captain Kidd by John Burke, a workman by Thomas Lodge, Devers by Eugene Picciano, Commandant of the Guard by Mary Ellen Vincent, and a man by Leo Gallenstein.

The singing chorus includes Miriam Weinstein, Molly Cochran, Dorothy Baines, Nadya Grushetsky, Marie Picciano, Paul Thompson, Howard Newsome, Conrad DeFilippis, and John Mitchell.

The Temptation of Ballet, dance highlight of the musical, will be danced by members of Orchestra. (See "LADIES," Page 12)

Federalists Adopt Constitution; Make Hawkins Advisor

● UNIVERSITY Students urging "federal world government based on the democratic principles" ratified their constitution by a unanimous vote of the total membership when they met last Saturday at 1710 Eye Street, N. W.

Dr. David Hawkins, associate professor of Philosophy, was selected as advisor to the organization.

The election of officers, scheduled for the meeting, was postponed until March 1 when the group meets again, because ratification of the constitution consumed more time than was originally planned.

The preamble of the new constitution states that "we urge that a federal world government based on the democratic principles be created to establish peace... (and) we are assuming the responsibility of educating ourselves so that we may help solve the unsolved problem of the prevention of war."

Blades Addresses Mayo Foundation

● DR. BRIAN B. BLADES, professor of surgery and head of the research program of the University Medical School, delivered a guest lecture on chronic lung diseases before the staff of the Mayo Foundation in Rochester, Minnesota, at one of the Foundation's recent regular meetings.

Of Kings— And Cabbageheads

● A FEW DAYS AGO the Interfraternity Council shed new light upon the question of how to deal with closed nights. This organization, theoretically composed of the finest of the fraternity members on campus, provided a recipe for blatantly ignoring campus regulations. Although the recipe is as yet untried, we pass it on for the benefit of any other organization which may want to "flex its muscles."

Take one closed night.

Decide it is a good night to hold an affair.

Through propriety ask the group for whom the night has been closed if they will agree to allow your organization to hold an affair which involves hundreds of students.

Regardless of the answer, go ahead and draw up definite plans.

Apply for Student Council approval.

Regardless of the answer, confirm your plans to the student body.

When well-done, inform The Hatchet that the affair will be held and any fine forthcoming in case of disapproval will be paid.

This plan of operation was used by the Interfraternity Council last week, when it realized that the date of March 7, which it had set aside for the annual Interfraternity Prom had been previously closed for Cue and Curtain's production of "Ladies In Hades." This despite the fact that March 7 was the only night closed during the drama group's four-day run.

Last October, each Friday night of Cue and Curtain's four productions was designated by the Student Council as closed. But the fraternity group nonetheless made its plans for March 7, and now boldly refuses to back down in order to comply with a regulation to which the entire University is bound.

The Council approached Cue and Curtain with its plans. Cue and Curtain replied that, under Student Council regulations, it saw no reason to relinquish the closed night. In addition, the drama society felt that one closed night per show worked no hardship on any organization at the University.

We agree that Cue and Curtain's stand is logical, reasonable, and justified.

Approval or rejection of the Interfraternity Council's application for use of March 7 will be made at the Student Council meeting tomorrow night. But IFC's president has let it be known that regardless of the decision the prom will be held as scheduled, and should a fine be imposed the group will forfeit the funds.

We can see but one course of action for the Student Council: Denial of the application, the penalty of a heavy fine—not fifty dollars, but five hundred—along with withdrawal of use of University facilities in event of violation.

The Interfraternity Council must be made to understand that the acceptance of a fine cannot balance the books. The punishment must fit the crime, and IFC's utter disregard for Student Council regulations and uncooperative approach to activities is a major offense. The verdict can only be "guilty in the first degree."

And The Coroner Made No Report...

● "REQUEST of The Grind, proposed humor magazine, for University recognition was considered on February 13, 1947, by a group representing the Administration, Faculty, and Student Body of The George Washington University. The decisions of this group, reached unanimously, . . ." (our emphasis) have, as appears to be the custom, stifled student literary expression—the fruits of many months' labor, and one of the soundest financial programs ever developed by a University group on this campus.

Once again, the Administration has "pulled a fast one" on the student body. Actually, the meeting referred to in the above excerpt, taken from a letter sent to the editors of The Grind by the Chairman of the Committee on Publications, was a brief, to-the-point, special meeting called by President Marvin, at which time he made quite clear his abhorrence of any group possessed with the "dream" of publishing a campus magazine. Mincing no words, he gave the unmistakable impression that any such group would be suppressed—eventually.

Startling is the fact that no vote was taken by the group which gathered in the President's Office. But, the letter states that a "unanimous" decision was reached. This "song-and-dance" has a ringing note for all who remember the falsely reported "unanimous" vote for expulsion of an A. V. C. member by the Student Life Committee last fall.

It is interesting that the three decisions of President Marvin, as relayed by Dr. Linton in his letter to the editors of The Grind (and published in last week's editorial "To Do and Die") contain no explanation for denial of recognition.

The sound financial set-up of The Grind was obviously without flaw; therefore, the efforts of this group have evidently been crushed because of the magazine's content, before they were given a chance to prove that it could possibly develop real merit. The natural impulse to give "a second chance"—a fair trial—does not apply here, it seems.

In May, 1941, a literary magazine called The Helicon appeared on campus. In October of that year, The Student Council, by unanimous vote, gave its unqualified approval and placed the literary magazine's future in the hands of President Marvin and the Board of Trustees.

Later in the month, the Chairman of the Committee on Publications sent a letter to Ray Arcaneaux, the editor of the magazine, which in body was a letter from the President. The letter from President Marvin stated, and we quote, "At the meeting of the Board of Trustees on October 9 . . . this leaves all of us in one accord—that a literary magazine would be a very desirable addition to the University . . . But inasmuch . . . And inasmuch . . . And inasmuch . . ." At that meeting the Board had decided that the venture should not at that time be entered upon.

That magazine, like The Grind, was a financial success. The Helicon went on sale in the Student Club and was sold out in two hours. A second printing met with similar results. The Student Council at that time had voted unanimously to back The Helicon and absorb any deficit (though none was anticipated.)

Though The Helicon was a literary magazine and The Grind is a humor magazine, both were faced with the same situation. The supreme test of a magazine's life should be whether or not it is a financial success.

We need only cite that this University has had financially successful magazines. In 1926, a magazine known as the Colonial Wig was "as financially successful as most college literary magazines; at least, it paid its just debts and was never permanently in the red . . . Very few college literary magazines could have boasted a brighter array of talent . . ." This statement was made in 1941 by the professor who started the magazine, the late Dr. Douglas Bement.

In a letter to The Hatchet in 1941, Dr. Bement stated that the Colonial Wig was a self-supporting literary periodical. In his letter he stated ". . . the first contributor to our endowment fund was Mrs. William Mather Lewis, the wife of the then president of the University." Upon Dr. Marvin's assumption of the presidency, the Wig was combined into a literary supplement to The Hatchet and, in Dr. Bement's words, "It did not die from natural causes."

And the facts indicate that The Grind did not die from "natural causes." That The Grind is a failure has not been proved.

From all evidences, the prime prerequisite for a campus magazine is the blessing—which he chooses to withhold—of the President.

The condemnation of the magazine defies all logic—all rational thinking. Must this stone wall be forever impenetrable?

Letters to the Editors

Dear Editors:

● TWO SIGNIFICANT events of the past week can not pass unnoticed by persons who have taken an active interest in the campaign for opening Lisner Auditorium to all citizens.

I was glad to see the Hatchet express its opinion on the Lisner Auditorium question last week. Regardless of the opinion expressed, it's a healthy sign when our student newspaper takes a definite stand on a question affecting all of us. It was interesting to note that your editorial expressed particular concern over what amounted to a discrimination against all theatregoers since its recent run of commercial productions had ended.

The second event, the Board of Trustees' decision not to impose restrictions on functions of an educational nature, was a partial answer to your plea for reopening the auditorium. The Board certainly deserves our commendation for this step in the right direction. Concerning use of the auditorium for commercial functions, several observations might be made:

1. That Washington needs a large, well-equipped theatre which does not practice a restrictive audience policy.

2. That Lisner Auditorium can fill this need.

3. That if and when commercial productions are shown at Lisner, arrangements should be made for a special student matinee at reduced prices for holders of activity cards.

We are all aware that University functions take precedence in use of the auditorium. But if open dates are available, the auditorium should be used as a center of community cultural activities. The lifting of the color ban has enhanced GW's prestige—the presentation of good plays, operas, and concerts would be a real contribution to community life.

Sincerely,

DON ROTHENBERG

Dear Editors:

● SIX WEEKS ago, Bob Duncan, Sports Publicity Director of the University, organized a group of students to put on an acrobatic routine for entertainment between the halves of the V. P. I. basketball game. For six weeks, this team spent an average of two hours a day exercising and practicing for one of the entertainment highlights of the season.

The boys on the basketball team watched the rehearsals with interest and enthusiasm. Bob had put on some wonderful shows for both the team and its supporters. Writers from Washington newspapers hailed his shows as excellent. Through his efforts, the team and the University as a whole gained a great deal of most favorable recognition.

In preparation for what was to be the best show of the sport season, there was a picture in the Washington Post of the two girls who were to be featured in the acrobatic dance—Nancy Hanck, former editor of The Hatchet, and Maryanne Dotson, medical student in the University—both highly respected students.

But the show never went on; it was squelched just as many of the student activities are squelched.

But this time, we are unwilling to let it go unnoticed! We want everyone to know why!

Miss Hanck and Miss Dotson were pictured in The Post wearing the regulation costume of all students registered in the University's modern dance classes. These leotards are sold in the Student Club, issued here in the University—required uniforms.

BUT, Dr. Marvin said that the show could not go on, because (note this) the costumes which the girls were wearing in the picture and which they intended to wear in the performance, were indecent, obscene.

What do you say we get organized? Is the school requiring its women students to wear "obscene" uniforms? If so, immediate change of uniform is in order; if not, we want to get a few things straightened out!

A lot of people were very disappointed—a lot of people came to see that show. Are we going to continue to be disappointed or are we going to get organized?

Midnight

The leaves are falling, and the woodsmoke warms the air.

With the crisp fire of October.

And the ice will be frozen in the creeks.

In the spring rain, the lost love shall return.

And now we wake at midnight, and watch the endless stars.

The heart beats, the earth turns, the mind is whispering,

In one unalterable rhythm.

The universe whirls on, and we alone in spirit,

Feel the frame of bone beneath our souls.

And our wondering is the unanswered music,

An echoing chord of the last hour, before the answering dawn.

VA Gives Insurance Information

• VETERANS RECEIVING "lapse notices" on their National Service Life Insurance when they are certain they have made all of their premium payments punctually, should immediately bring any evidence of payment to the attention of the Veterans Administration, Mr. J. H. O'Hara, VA contact representative for the University, said today.

"Delay in the crediting of payments with premium accounts occurred in some cases because of the heavy volume of work at the Richmond branch office after the decentralization of insurance accounts to that office from New York," he explained.

As a result, some veterans have received lapse notices although they have made their payments on time. The Richmond branch office serves National Service policyholders in Virginia, North Carolina, Maryland, West Virginia and the District of Columbia.

Mr. O'Hara said that when a discrepancy appears between a veteran's personal records of his payments and VA accounts, the veteran should write the VA branch office handling his account and list dates, amounts and methods of payment, in addition to all numbers appearing on cancelled checks or money order receipts.

In this connection, all insured veterans were cautioned to retain records of all premium payments made in forms such as cancelled checks and money order stubs.

In all correspondence with the Veterans Administration relative to their insurance policies, veterans should always include the National Service Life Insurance policy or certificate "N" or "V" numbers, and if they have more than one policy, their "FN" or "FV" numbers.

Mr. O'Hara, VA contact representative for the University, is on duty on the third floor of Building Q on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, from 9 a.m. to 4:45 p.m., for further information.

COGS Registers Recruits; Offers Varied Program

• REGISTRATION for new members of COGS, the College Organization for General Service for Girls, will be held in the Student Club on Thursday and Friday of this week, from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Plans for the semester include an expanded social program. This program, as outlined by Co-director Dorothy Breneman, includes plans for a bridge party, a picnic in Rock Creek Park, and a bowling party.

Among the activities which come under the COGS services are work at the Episcopal Eyes, Ear and Throat Hospital, the District Prison, settlement houses, and work as hostesses at servicemen's dances.

Girls are needed to work in all these phases, the Co-director states. Full membership in COGS is acquired after thirty points have been earned by working on projects and attending meetings. Regular meetings are held at 2 p.m. on Monday in Building D, Room 102, and at 4 p.m. in Building D, Room 103.

At the end of the semester an award will be given to the girl who has accumulated the greatest number of points in the organization.

Melchior's Choice...

George Bishop Wins Praise From Celebrated Opera Star

By RAY GLASSCOCK

• IT'S THE GREATEST compliment I've ever had," George Bishop told us after the broadcast. And we agreed that we, too, might be inclined to feel slightly elated if Lauritz Melchior, in person, had congratulated us on our accomplishments as a composer.

All this took place last Saturday evening, when George played two of his original compositions on WTOP's "Top Talent" show. The tunes, "Stars May Fall," and "Do It Anyway," are from the eighteen numbers George composed for the score of Cue and Curtains' March production, "Ladies In Hades."

Mr. Melchior, who appeared as guest judge, chose George over three other contestants as the top talent on "Top Talent." Later he went over, along with sixty or seventy of George's assembled friends, to congratulate him on the music.

George is a former student at the University, and a member of Sigma Chi Fraternity, where he now lives. His composing endeavors have been going on for a number of years, and the score of "Ladies written about two weeks ago. The sixteen numbers in-between saw George into the Army and out again.

George has appeared frequently on Buff and Blue and other University programs. Through March 8, he's working nightly at Lisner on "Ladies" rehearsals.

Book Exchange Still Requests Missing Texts

• TEXT BOOKS are still needed, although the response to last week's advertisement brought in a number of urgently needed texts, Bob Johnson, manager of the Student Book Exchange, said.

Among the newly-acquired texts are Basic Spanish by Barlow, American Nation by Hicks, College Zoology by Hegner, Statistics by Croxton and Couden, and Physics Lab Manual by Brown.

The following texts are still needed: Spanish Conversation by Keating; Accounting by Owens and Kennedy; Constitutional Cases by Cushman; American Government, 7th Edition, by West; and Documents of American History by Commager.

Students are urged to take these texts, as well as any others, to 2131 G Street on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Chi Upsilon Holds "At Home" Party

• AN "AT HOME" party will be given by Chi Upsilon, geological sorority, for the members of Sigma Gamma Epsilon, geological fraternity, their wives, and the husbands of members of Chi Upsilon, on Sunday from 4 to 6 p.m. at the home of Miss Elizabeth Kehal, 2929 Connecticut Avenue, N.W.

Assistant hostesses are Margaret Prinin and Rosalyn Howard.

Correction

• IN A STORY about revisions in requirements for the Law School last week, it was incorrectly stated that "This new system abolishes the LL.B. degree." The statement should have read, "This new system abolishes the combined A.B.-LL.B. degree."

Current Affairs Members Visit Foreign Office

• CURRENT AFFAIRS Club members will make a trip to the State Department on March 5 at 2:30 p.m.

A tentative two-hour program has been outlined so the members of the State Department will be able to explain the workings of the Department, such as the manner in which individuals may make their opinions known to the Department, and the path that a cable must take from the time that it is sent from a foreign post, through the channels of the Department, and back to the post abroad.

A model United Nations Economic and Social Council sponsored by fourteen universities and colleges in the Washington and Baltimore area will consider the problem "Limitations of Immigration Barriers" at a meeting on March 22 in Baltimore.

As the delegate of the University Current Affairs Club, Collin Hughes will open the all-day conference by taking the stand of China, which the club has been asked to represent.

Veterans Office Plans Increased Hospital Facilities

• ACCORDING to the Office of Public Relations of the Veterans Administration, the VA plans to open 77 more hospitals in addition to the 123 now in operation. Veterans who served in the armed forces during peace time are entitled to enter these institutions only if they have service-connected disabilities.

The office also revealed that only 85,000 of the 14,000,000 World War II veterans had exhausted their unemployment allowances by last December 1.

A total of 5,600 veterans with certain disabilities received automatic conveyance aids at Government expense by the end of 1946.

A monthly average of 47,000 veterans filed applications with Veterans Administration last year to convert their National Service Life Insurance to permanent Government policies.

Big Sisters Show Styles At Strong

• DOROTHY BAINES, president Big Sisters, announces that all women students of the University are invited to a style show in the living room of Strong Hall on March 20 at 4 p.m.

Miss G. K. Warren, a representative of Woodward and Lothrop's, will introduce the styles. A variety of fashions will be modeled by twelve women who will be chosen from the student body.

Honorary Schedules Conference

• MORTAR BOARD, senior women's honorary at the University, will present its annual Career Conference, one of the society's major projects of the year, on Monday, March 10 to 8:10 p.m. in Government 1.

Sponsored for the guidance of all University women interested in pursuing a career, the conference will open with a talk by an outstanding career woman, after which the general session will adjourn to assigned rooms for discussions of career possibilities in specific fields of interest.

Each of the specialty sessions will be presided over by an expert in the fields of Radio, Journalism, Medicine, Science, Education, Junior Administrative Training, Government Service, and Home Economics.

Mortar Board members Lois Lord, Dorothy Jean Eggeling, Vivian Burke, Alma Jean Tolan, and Gertrude McNabb are arranging for the appearance of outstanding women from the various professional fields which seem to attract the most women.

The Honorable Clare Boothe Luce, Republican Congresswoman from Connecticut, was the principal speaker on the general opportunities for women in careers conference.

In the specialty sessions, Josephine Callan, associate in the Speech and Drama Department at Catholic University, spoke on the Drama, Mary Switzer, Assistant to the Administrator of the Federal Securities Agency, spoke on Government Service.

The editor of the Journal of Home Economics, Helen Hostetter, presided over the Home Economics discussion. Dr. Eloise Cram, medical zoologist in the laboratory of the National Institute of Health, discussed the Medical field. Lt. Col. Mary Agnes Brown, Advisor on Women Veterans, led the Law Discussion.

Bands Combine; Entertain Friday In Student Club

• THE NEW Veterans Band, under the joint leadership of Glenn Forest and Ray Payne will make its debut Friday afternoon at 12:15 in the Student Club.

The band is the result of a recent merger between the old Veterans Band and Glenn Forest's orchestra.

According to Paul Cantor, former tenor saxophonist with prominent mid-western orchestras and comedy lead in the forthcoming Cue and Curtains production of "Ladies in Hades," the band "has the makings of a fine outfit—it's a group to watch. They're going places."

Speaks Lists Workers For "Freshman Follies"; Show Begins Rehearsal

● JIM SPEAKS, president of the freshman class, announced this week that the "Freshman Follies of 1947" will be held in Lisner Auditorium at 8:15 p.m. on March 14.

Tickets will be available about March 1, and may be purchased from the solicitors on campus and at the auditorium opening night.

Casting was completed last week, and first rehearsal was held last Friday. A variety of talent has been selected from the scores of freshmen who were auditioned. The show will consist of approximately 12 acts, featuring Bill Howard and his 12-piece orchestra, in "the gorgeous setting of the future Student Club."

The president emphasized the fact that this is the first production of its kind and hopes that it will be an annual project of the freshman class.

The following committees were selected for the production:

Stage Manager, Fred James. Assistants, Bill Muck and Carl Degen. Lighting Chairman, Frank Cowie. Assistant, Bill Patterson.

Props Chairman, Ann Hawthorne. Assistants, Joanne Walsh, Wini McGowan, Mary Alice Greer and Pete Smith.

Make-up Chairman, Bobby Fenderson. Assistants, Peg Mudwhall, Jane Sommers.

Costumes Chairman, Milt Smith. Assistants, Sally Evans, Marsha Roessing, Tink Umbel, Sally Tishbein, Robin Stickle and Ruth Stickle.

Scenery Chairman, Walt Hansen. Assistants, Trudy Tulley, Bob Swanson, Monty Sexton, Marie Ble and Barbara Johnson.

Casting, Bobby Fenderson, Bob Swanson, Walt Hansen.

Tickets and Programs Chairman, Phyllis Weissinger. Assistants, Bev Rohrs, Helen Fay Saunders, Jean Minear and Polly Nason.

Publicity Co-Chairman, Bill Clark and Jim Keshishian. Assistants, Joan Leidinger, Jane Herring, Rosemary Glenn, Ann Eubank and Jackie Snell.

The rehearsal schedule is as follows:

Tuesday, February 25, Green Room, Lisner Auditorium, 1-4 p.m.

Thursday, February 27, Columbian House, Rm. D. 8 p.m.

Tuesday, March 4, Columbian House, Rm. D. 8 p.m.

Thursday, March 6, Columbian House, Rm. D. 8 p.m.

Saturday, March 12, Columbian House, Rm. D. 1-4 p.m.

Wednesday, March 12, Dress Rehearsal, Lisner Auditorium, 8:15 p.m.

Thursday, March 13, Green Room, Lisner Auditorium, 1-3 p.m.

Thursday, March 13, Dress Rehearsal, Lisner Auditorium, 8:15 p.m.

Anyone interested in working on any of the committees for the production should call REpublic 9811.

Pruden Delivers Second Address

● "YOUR RELIGION: How Adventurous Is It?" will be the subject of the second talk in a series of six Lenten addresses presented by the Rev. Edward Hughes Pruden, of the First Baptist Church. The talk will be given from 12:10 to 12:30 p.m. in the sanctuary of Western Church, 1906 H Street, N.W.

Hellenic Body Arranges Free Greek Classes

● FREE CLASSES in modern Greek culture and language will be given again this semester by the Hellenic Society. It was announced by John Paraskevas, member of the society.

The class will meet one hour each week, on Fridays at 8:15 p.m. in Building D, Room 208. Since a few students have shown interest in Ancient Greek, other students may express their interest by attending the Modern Greek class.

Sophia Theophilos, ex-president of the Hellenic Society, gave a bridge party at her house last Sunday for all the members of the group.

John Paraskevas, interested in establishing Hellenic Societies in all the major universities and colleges in the country, is in close correspondence with the University of Pennsylvania.

A chapter of this network was established at the University of Maryland in 1943 through the efforts of Stella Rudes, formerly of Columbia University, and Paraskevas. In the spring the University chapter of the Hellenic Society will have a joint meeting on the campus of the University of Maryland.

The constitutional committee composed of John Paraskevas, Charles Lalos, Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Charnar, John Nevros, and Elli Manoutsos has made progress in revising the constitution.

Rybeck Addresses Phi Delta Gamma Business Meeting

● GUEST SPEAKER at the regular business meeting of Phi Delta Gamma's Beta Chapter in Columbian House next Sunday at 3 p.m. will be Olof Rybeck, First Secretary of the Swedish Legation.

Mr. Rybeck received the degrees of philosophy and law at the University of Uppsala, Sweden. Entering the Swedish Ministry of Foreign Affairs in 1939, he was appointed to the Swedish Legation in Berlin in 1940, and to the Legation in Ankara in 1941. After serving again in Stockholm from 1942 to 1945, he was made Second Secretary of the Swedish Legation in Washington. In 1946 he became First Secretary.

Following the business meeting there will be a program and social hour with Thelma Donze as hostess.

The members of Alpha Chapter have been invited to bring their neophytes to meet the neophytes of Beta Chapter and hear the guest speaker.

● SPEAKING OF SPEECH—Hatchet reporter talks with Howard Leggette and Edwin L. Stevens of the Speech Department. Mr. Leggette assumed the post of head of the Speech Department in October. Mr. Stevens, who joined the staff this semester, worked with Station WRLI, and has taught in New York, Baltimore, and Philadelphia. More than 1500 students enrolled in speech classes this year.

District Library Employment Director Advises On Careers

● "IF YOU ARE interested in books and in people, then the best field for you is library service," said Mrs. Catherine Hauck, University alumna, and employment director for the District Public Libraries.

There is a nation-wide need for librarians, Mrs. Hauck said, and it is one field in which all specialists have no difficulty finding jobs.

Opportunities within the field are varied, she continued, for librarians are needed in public libraries and school libraries as well as in government, industrial, technical, and service libraries.

Training within the field generally includes graduation from an accredited university, with a year's post-graduate work. However, some universities offer degrees in library science at the end of a four year course.

Although the most acceptable major for librarians in the past has been English Literature, Mrs. Hauck explained, emphasis now has shifted to the social sciences, including history, sociology, and psychology. Most library science schools require a year each of two modern foreign languages, preferably French, German, or Spanish.

Mrs. Hauck added that for those college graduates who are not sure that library work is what they are interested in, the local public library system is offering a plan whereby graduates may work for a year without having a library degree. In this way, they may discover whether they are interested in library work without spending extra time and effort working for another degree. If the graduates find that the work appeals to them as a profession, they are then encouraged by the library officials to work for their library science degrees.

Mrs. Hauck stressed the advantages of library service. Although the salaries are not particularly high at present, they are rapidly increasing, she believes. She feels, however, that the satisfaction to be derived from the work is of chief importance. Mr. Hauck explained that library service emphasizes the education of the whole man, by providing not only necessary reference and text books, but books for leisure and recreation time.

A new program, developed to supplement older services, is being provided, which the officials feel will help combat juvenile delinquency by interesting teen-agers in books and group activities. Books written especially for teen-agers are being introduced, and librarians are attempting to make reading a pleasure rather than a chore.

Locally, future plans for the public libraries include ten new branches, and the rebuilding of four more within the next six years. The new building for the Central Branch, which has already been completed at Fifth Street and Pennsylvania Avenue, will shortly be vacated by the government agency now occupying it.

Speaks Announces Freshman Dance

● THE FRESHMAN Spring Dance will be held at the Annapolis Hotel, March 21, 9-12 p.m., President Jim Speaks announced.

Tickets will go on sale March 14 at $1.20 per couple. The semi-formal dance will feature Bill Howard's orchestra plus a surprise floor show.

Tickets will be limited to 200 couples.

All proceeds over and above the expenses from the Freshman Follies and the Dance will be turned over to the University Hospital Fund Drive as the Freshman gift to the University.

Composer Previews Musical

● "LADIES IN HADES," the original musical comedy produced by Cue and Curtain presented preview broadcasts over two local radio stations last Saturday.

The Georgetown University student station invited the cast to present a preview of several musical numbers from the play in celebration of George Washington's Birthday. The performance, originating in the Georgetown studios, was broadcast through the facilities of station WRLI in Arlington, with which the student broadcasters have a weekly arrangement for the airing of student programs.

George Bishop, composer of the music for "Ladies in Hades," played two numbers from the show, "Cheer Up," the opening number, and music from the Temptation Ballet.

Act I, Scene I, was enacted by Priscilla Hart, Jody Miller, Pete Kouzes, Tom Lodge, Bob Keefe, and John Burke, with musical accompaniment by George Bishop, and a running commentary by Druce Snyder as narrator.

Pete Kouzes, who has the male lead as the frustrated businessman who sold his soul to the devil in exchange for his lost youth, sang "There's a Dream in My Heart," and joined Priscilla Hart, the feminine lead, for "Stars May Fall." Jody Miller sang "One Life to Live," and Bob Keefe sang "Troubles," the prelude to the arrival in Hades of the group recruited on earth by Mephistopheles.

The WRLI broadcast was followed by the appearance of George Bishop at the piano on the WTOP "Top Talent" program playing several selections from the score of the play. (Story of WTOP broadcast on page 3.)

American Welders Offer Two Prizes For Best Articles

● SEVEN HUNDRED dollars in cash prizes will be given for the two best articles on welding published in undergraduate magazines between July 1 and April 1, 1947, the American Welding Society has announced.

The annual A. F. Davis Undergraduate Welding Award consists of four prizes; the author or authors of the two best articles on welding will receive prizes of $200 and $150, and the publications in which the articles appear will also receive cash prizes of $200 and $150.

The articles may be on any phase of any type of welding or its application to design or construction. Any undergraduate of any college or university in the United States, its possessions, or Canada, is eligible.

The papers will be judged by a group selected by the American Welding Society. Judging will be done on the basis of originality of subject, originality and clarity of the presentation and the thoroughness with which the subject is presented.

The authors and publications to receive awards will be notified by mail on May 15, 1947. The awards will be presented during the annual meeting of the American Welding Society to be held the week of October 13, 1947, at Chicago.

Behind the Scenes With "Ladies"

● ROMANTIC LEAD Priscilla Hart poses for The Hatchet between scenes of "Ladies In Hades" rehearsal. Priscilla began her singing career at the age of six, when she sang before the Shah of Persia, who dubbed her "The Persian Nightingale."

● ROMANTIC LEAD Pete Kouzes breaks rehearsal for a reassuring session with his pipe. Pete has sung at the Capital Theatre, in Chicago nightclubs, and with Army bands during his long stretch in the service.

● THE DIRECTOR and Assistant Director look over some minor script changes. These pensive countenances have become habitual since Sparky and Drucie began their directorial tasks. Pots of coffee, cartons of cigarettes and drums of midnight oil have become the password.

● COMEDY LEADS Paul Cantor and Jody Miller trolloping backstage. Jody, a transfer student, sings nightly at the Madrilion. Paul comes from a long line of show people. His uncle is "Finnegun" on the Duffy's Tavern broadcast.

● DIRECTOR FLOYD L. Sparks and Assistant Director Drucie Snyder make interested spectators as composer George Bishop plays over the final—and eighteenth—number he has written for the original musical comedy.

University Confers Degrees On 281 February Graduates

● AT THE LARGEST convocation in the history of the University, Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin conferred 281 degrees last Saturday in Lisner Auditorium.

Dr. Elmer L. Kayser, dean of the division of University students and marshal of the University, opened the ceremonies with the announcement of convocation. The invocation was delivered by the Reverend Robert Edward Lee, former chaplain of the aircraft carrier, Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The Student Speaks

(Ed. Note—We had a sneaking suspicion when we asked our reporters to conduct a poll on coverage of The Hatchet, that Foggy Bottom would be the major concern of the student body. How right we were!

As to the other comments, we are happy to have them, and to pass them on to you. Further comments from the student body at large will be much appreciated by the editors.

For our Foggy Bottom-conscious: any item submitted to us by Greeks or independents, will very likely find its way into the column—but it's up to you to submit them.)

Marty Berger, Sophomore: I'd like to see a more elaborate coverage of student politics. Otherwise, I think The Hatchet covers the news well. In my opinion, it has generally improved this past semester.

Donald Marks, Freshman: I think The Hatchet is too dull for a school publication. School sports are covered well. I think the staff fills half the pages with nothing of importance. I'd like to see more student opinion published in the form of Letters to the Editor.

Bernard Korostoff, Sophomore: I believe that most of the columns, gossip and the like, refer primarily to sorority and fraternity members. The great majority of the students are not concerned with sorority and fraternity life, and find little to interest them in these columns.

Betty Sheridan, Sophomore: There are too many organizations at the University that aren't publicized in The Hatchet. Foggy Bottom could cover more news than merely marriages and engagements.

Polly Hallman, Sophomore: I think humor articles such as the one on Quigley's would live up the paper. That sort of article will appeal to more students than some of the heavy editorials. For a small, select group, The Hatchet is interesting. However, write-ups on the things common to all students would prove more interesting.

Dotty Jacobs, Sophomore: I would like to see The Hatchet replace Foggy Bottom with the former system of publishing the news of each individual organization on campus.

Bill Hines, Sophomore: Feature articles in The Hatchet are dead. I would like to see them a little more lively, and original. Foggy Bottom is always about the same people. There should be a more general coverage of the student body. I think the editorials should be more constructive and less derogatory. In general, the articles are well written and interesting.

John Beck, Freshman: More pictures of campus life and people, and the campus activities would be advisable. A page of pictures each week would make the paper more popular.

Initiation Ceremony

● DELTA Phi Epsilon, the national foreign service fraternity, held initiation last Sunday at Georgetown University's Alpha chapter house.

Those initiated into the local Eta chapter were Dr. William G. Torpey, Professor of Political Science at the University, and William Rockwood.

Education Influences U.S. Fate

● DR. LOWELL J. RAGATZ, speaking last night before the Businessmen's Club of Baltimore on the subject "Let's Promote International Peace," said, "If a world peace movement is now to succeed, it can be accomplished only by placing it on a popular basis and by making the average citizen realize the importance of placing internationalism above narrow nationalism."

"After every war in modern times," said Dr. Ragatz, "concerted efforts have been made to prevent another war. Notable movements in the past were Henry IV's Grand Design following the Civil War in England, the German philosopher Kant's Perpetual Peace Plan following the Napoleonic Wars, and the League of Nations following World War I."

"These plans failed," Dr. Ragatz said, "because they were governmental projects and not responsibilities of the peoples of the nations involved."

"A successful world peace movement calls for large-scale education," Dr. Ragatz believes that one of the best ways of achieving this is by the exchange of teachers, clergymen, newspapermen, publicists and students between the various countries of the world.

"Prejudice between America and Russia would decrease if American students were to spend a year in Russia and Russian students a year in our country," the speaker stated.

Dr. Ragatz believes that more efforts in this direction are being made in the United States than in any other country in the world.

procedure by inexperienced hands, especially in small groups, Roberts went on to say that all leaders of larger campus organizations should know the fundamentals of parliamentary law, and recommended as guides "Robert's Rules of Order" and F. J. Haskin's "Parliamentary Law." These books should be purchased and then "put on the shelf" and referred to only when a dispute arises, he said.

Roberts likened Parliamentary law to democracy, both in fundamentals and development. He states the four main principles of parliamentary procedure as follows:

1. To promote equality and fairness.
2. To bring about the orderly conduct of business.
3. To give the majority an opportunity to carry out its wishes.
4. To protect the rights of the minority membership.

The operation of parliamentary procedure and problems in conducting a meeting with orderly transaction of business were also discussed. In Roberts' opinion, all that is necessary for an efficient organization is a president who has a working knowledge of parliamentary procedure, a secretary who can keep records, and a treasurer who can be trusted.

The conference was then opened to panel discussion and questions from the floor.

Two more conferences will follow tomorrow's meeting. These will be held on March 5 and 12, respectively. The topics for these nights will be "Special Aids" and a "Model Meeting," which will include a summary of the previous conferences.

Council Announces Date For Interfraternity Sing

● ANNOUNCEMENT that an Interfraternity Sing will be presented on April 2 in Lisner Auditorium by the fraternities on campus was made last week by Reid Baldrige, president of the council.

Rules governing participation in the sing have been released as follows:

1. Participation is limited to actives and pledges of the fraternities on campus. This includes direction and instruction.
 2. At least fifty percent of actives and pledges in a fraternity must participate.
 3. Each chapter may present one song, popular or classic, and one fraternity song or a medley of three fraternity songs.
 4. Dress is optional.
 5. Piano accompaniment is prohibited.
 6. Sheet music or written words cannot be used on the stage.
 7. Selections must be submitted to the Interfraternity Council by this Saturday. The number of participants in each group must be submitted by March 15.
 8. A drawing will be held to determine order of participation.
 9. All entrants must be prepared to sing the university Alma Mater.
- The Interfraternity Prom, annual highlight of the fraternity year, will be held Friday, March 7, at the Shoreham Hotel. On that occasion awards for scholarship and interfraternity athletic competition will be presented. Tapping for Gate and Key honorary fraternity will also be featured at that time.
- President Baldrige also stated that volleyball has been included in the Council's athletic program. Competition will begin next Tuesday. Names of teams should be submitted immediately on forms available in the Intramural Office. Joe Krupa, Intramural Athletics Director, at the last meeting of the Council, asked chapter athletic managers to bring their participation charts up to date and also to report all cancellations and errors in scheduling immediately.
- The Council is at present considering an Interfraternity Bridge Tournament suggested at the last meeting. Enthusiasm shown and ideas contributed will determine the holding of the tournament.

Psychology Club To Discuss Jobs

● "JOB OPPORTUNITIES" will be the subject of a panel discussion of the Psychology Club, Friday at 1:15 p. m., in Government 102, club president Millicent Carow announced last week.

Dr. Mitchell Dreese, professor of Educational Psychology, will preside over the discussion. Speakers will include Dr. Thelma Hunt, professor of Psychology, Dr. Charles Cofer, assistant professor of Psychology, and Dr. Curtis Edward Tuthill, assistant professor of Psychology.

Included in the program were the Rev. Frederick A. Schlotz of Brooklyn, the Rev. George Farrell of New York City, and the Rev. Richard Waef of Gettysburg who amplified the general theme "None Other God: An Interpretation of the Christian Faith Through the Lutheran Church."

Hillel Foundation

● DEAN MYRON L. Koenig will be the guest of honor at the bi-weekly coffee hour from 2 to 4 p.m. tomorrow afternoon at Hillel House, 2129 F Street N.W., to which all University students are invited. Tomorrow evening at 8:15 p.m., Mrs. Lewis Dembitz of the I.V.S.A. will speak on "Territorialism."

Law Student Receives Post As Prosecutor

By JOY DOOLEY

● RICHARD M. ROBERTS, successful University law student, has the distinction of being Assistant United States Attorney at the Criminal Division of the District's Municipal Court before graduation from law school.

Richard is tall, slender, and reserved, and has the beginning gray touches in his black hair associated with the dignity of a prosecutor.

He is only 26, and is the youngest member of five associates. Quips from his fellow attorneys, who range from 15 to 20 years his senior, are all in fun. "Close the door, Richard," "answer the phone, son," are only a few.

This is one of the first instances in which a prosecutor was appointed before receiving a law degree. Richard passed the District Bar in 1944, two years after he entered law school.

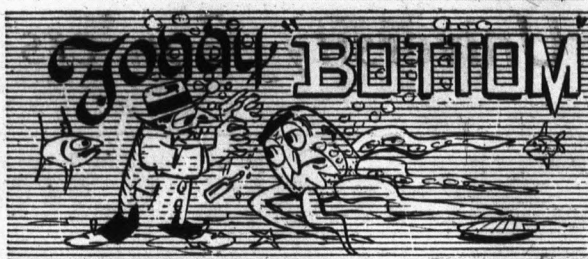

The young prosecutor was recommended for the appointment by Justice Edward Curran and the present United States Attorney, George Fay.

Having had past experience as a prosecutor, Richard stated, "work with our Military Government in Germany, as prosecutor of German civilians in the military court is the same in principle as prosecuting in the United States civilian court."

When asked if he had an opinion about the justice of our military court martial system, he said, "from talking to several legal officers, I got the impression that a serviceman is considered guilty until proven innocent, whereas in civilian practice a person is considered innocent until proven guilty."

In discussing his work, he explained that he appears before the court twice a week and the rest of his time is spent doing "counter work." "Counter work" consists of anything from the handling of family tangles to determining who is

Colonials Cinch Tournament Bid

Intramural Champions Compete

University Receives Bid to Extramural Basketball Tourney

• JOE KRUPA, director of Intramural Athletics, announced Friday that the University had been extended an invitation to enter its intramural basketball champion in a city-wide extramural basketball tournament.

The tournament will be sponsored by the American University Intramural Department and will be held March 8 and 15 at the two American University gymnasiums.

The tourney will be conducted on two successive Saturdays, the first round on March 8, and semi-finals the morning of March 15. Finals and consolation games will be played on the evening of that day.

In a letter to our Intramural Department, Hugo Schulze, director of Intramurals at American University stated that "such a tournament will add an additional highlight to the Intramural programs of the various schools and that this will be the first tourney of an annual series to determine an All-District Extramural basketball champion." Trophies will be presented to the winner and runner-up.

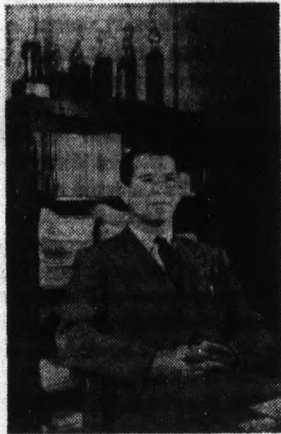

Krupa stated that the invitation was under consideration of the Intramural Athletic Council, but indicated that the Council was honored by the bid and would no doubt accept.

Stahley Postpones Spring Grid Practice

• A CHANGE in plans has been announced by J. Neil "Skip" Stahley, head football coach, for the first spring practice of the year.

Owing to the blanket of snow covering the practice field, first call for 1947 candidates has been set back one week and will take place next Monday instead of the date previously announced.

Stahley said that should the weather once again interfere, another date will be set.

Buff Mermen Sink American; Meet Catholic

• IN AN exhibition swimming meet last Thursday night, the Colonial nators defeated American University 29-26.

Since neither team was at full strength because of bad weather conditions, it was agreed to hold the exhibition meet and to postpone the scheduled intercollegiate match until March 6.

Although American University captured four of the five individual events, the Colonials earned their victory by capturing both relay events and four second places in individual competition.

Outstanding time was registered in the 220 yard free style event, when Hedges of A. U. and Al Mercante of the Colonials were both clocked at 2:34. The scorers, however, awarded the race to the A. U. swimmer.

The Colonials, who lost 38-28 to Catholic University in an earlier meet, have now won one contest and lost one. Their next meet is scheduled for tonight, when they oppose Catholic University in a return match.

150 yard Medley Relay: Won by G. W. Smithwick, Peters and Neuman. Time-1:33.3.
220 yard Free Style: 1st, Hedges (A. U.) 2nd, Mercante (G. W.) Time 2:34.
Fancy Diving: 1st, Carter (A. U.) 2nd, Feeney (G. W.)
100 yard Backstroke: 1st, Briggs (A. U.) 2nd, Smithwick (G. W.) 3rd, Dickson (A. U.) Time-1:19.3.
50 yard Free Style: 1st, Mercante (G. W.) 2nd, Carter (A. U.) 3rd, LaFever (A. U.) Time-26.8.
100 yard Breast Stroke: 1st, Ellis (A. U.) 2nd, Davis (G. W.) 3rd, Oshen (A. U.) Time-1:13.9.
200 yard relay: Won by G. W. Smithwick, Peters, Neuman, and Mercante. Time-1:59.

Cagers Down Duke; Face VMI The Citadel, Virginia This Week

Zahnmen to Meet Citadel Courtmen At Tech Tonight

• WITH AN INVITATION to the Southern Conference Tournament, March 6, 7, and 8, firmly within their grasp, the Colonials close out their 1947 schedule in three home contests this week.

The last place Citadel cagers furnish the opposition tonight at Tech High School in a Southern Conference fray, and, after playing a return engagement with the University of Virginia five at Uline Arena Thursday, the Buffmen will make a final home appearance against the V. M. I. Keydets at Roosevelt High School Friday night.

In a trio of conference engagements last week, the Colonials emerged with a clean slate, downing Richmond, Virginia Tech, and Duke.

The Richmond affair was strictly "no contest" after the first few minutes. The Buffmen, finding the range to the basket in the early stages of the game, piled up a substantial half-time lead and continued to roll up the score throughout the second stanza to take a 76-47 decision and set a scoring record for the season, the previous high mark being 71 points against the Quantico Marines. Scoring honors for the game went to Edsel Gustafson, who tallied 12 points.

Virginia Tech was the second Colonial victim of the week in another runaway tilt.

Taking the lead after one minute of play on a long set shot by Don McNary, the Colonials stayed in front by a comfortable margin all the way in winning a 66-49 decision.

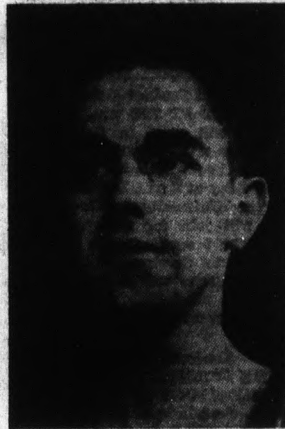

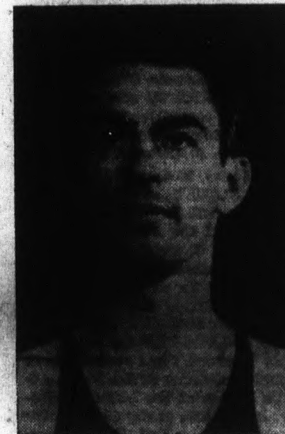

Bill Cantwell tallied 16 points to lead the Buff scorers, but the return to form of McNary, who played one of the finest games of his career, was the highlight of the victory as far as Coach "Otis" Zahn was concerned. E. S.

Conference Star Drills With Nats

• THE FIRST home run of the Washington Senators' spring training season was belted last week by a former Southern Conference star, Jack Netcher.

Netcher left the campus of the College of William and Mary this month to join the Senators.

If he sticks with the Nats this season, Netcher will be one of the few players to make the jump from college to major league baseball.

Shipman Injured; Lost For Practice

• IT WAS LEARNED this week that Harvey Shipman, giant Colonial linemen and one of coach "Skip" Stahley's outstanding line candidates, may miss the first week of spring training because of a recent knee injury.

Shipman has been one of the outstanding stars of the current intramural basketball league as the player-coach of the Blanchard Boys. His knee was injured during a recent cage contest.

Allan "Sparky" Adams, University trainer, says that the injury "though painful, is not serious" and that "it is responding well to treatment."

Blue Devils Fall 51-49; Shapiro Stars for Buff

• A STUBBORN Colonial basketball team, determined to gain an invitation to the Southern Conference tournament, spotted the Duke Blue Devils a 7 point lead and then came on to win 51-49 in the most exciting contest of the season last Saturday afternoon at Uline Arena before a crowd of 3700 frenzied spectators.

A second stringer, Dave Shapiro, was the hero of this victory. Shapiro exhibited some of the fanciest tactics of the season on the Uline floor beside chipping in with 12 points.

Maynard Haithcock sent the Colonials into an early lead, tapping in a rebound after 10 seconds of play. But the Blue Devils immediately caught fire, and, with Garland Loftis leading the attack with five straight long set shots, they took a commanding lead.

The Colonials fought back in the late stages of the first half to tie the score on baskets by Barry Kreisberg and Bill Cantwell, and, with three minutes of the half remaining, Cantwell sent a one-handed shot through the cords to give the Colonials a lead which they never relinquished.

The second half was dominated, until the last few minutes, by the Colonials. Their clever ball handling, excellent defensive play, and accurate shooting kept the spectators in a continuous uproar.

It was Shapiro who got the Colonials off to a flying start in the second half by tapping in the first goal of that period. Cantwell followed with another two-pointer, and, after Ed "Hooks" Koffenberg, Duke's All-America center, had tallied for the Blue Devils, Shapiro scored again. Kreisberg's foul toss sent the Buff 9 points ahead.

The Colonials held on desperately before the furious Duke onslaught in the last few minutes. With Don McNary and Kreisberg playing magnificently under the backboards and Shapiro sparking their offense, the University five was simply unbeatable.

Kreisberg and Cantwell came out with top scoring honors, tallying 13 each, while Shapiro was only a single point behind them. Koffenberg and Loftis contributed 15 apiece for the losers. E. S.

Boxers, Wrestlers Hit Second Week Of Tourney Training

INTRAMURAL boxers and wrestlers went into their second week of training for the forthcoming tournaments as registration for the events were closed today.

Director Joe Krupa announced that teams in either ring sport would not be considered as such. It is the feeling of the athletic department that keener interest, is centered around individual accomplishment rather than a group's results in these particular sports.

Both Krupa and Art Endres, wrestling coach, envision a good spectator turnout for the two tournaments. They have been considerably encouraged by the many enthusiasts which the sports gained during the war years, when the University gymnasium was packed to capacity with onlookers.

As usual, college rules will prevail during both the boxing and mat tourneys, and it is hoped that the fans will cooperate with the tournament officials.

In answer to many inquiries that such intramural sports may lead to varsity sports not in the University program, Krupa stated that "Intramurals will never serve as a proving ground for future varsity sports or athletes."

Council Renders Decision

FAST GAINING the reputation of a powerful governing body, the Intramural Council will meet Monday at the Athletic Office to continue discussions centering around intramural eligibility rules. The Council will also elect a new set of officers at this meeting.

Controversy over the eligibility of men who have participated in varsity sports has been a leading factor in "off the field play," and the Council has intimated that a decision will be reached at this meeting.

The body has already settled one difficulty arising over eligibility rules, when it decided that men who had played with independent teams and had pledged fraternities were to be considered ineligible in interfraternity play. The situation arose when several fraternity quintets protested over the fact that certain fraternities were grabbing off the best of the independent athletes.

The teams will be forced to abide by whatever decision the council reaches in the present controversy.

A spokesman for the group stated also that the Council will draw up the schedule for the softball tournament commencing on March 21, and will release it immediately after final approval has been given by the members.

Carnavale Lauds Colonial Hoopsters

BEN CARNAVALE, coach of the U. S. Naval Academy basketball team, cleared up any mistaken ideas about the Colonials' supposed "lucky" victory over his team.

Said Carnavale, "On that day G. W. was the better team."

The middies own one of the finest records of any team in the country, having won 15 out of 16 contests to date. The lone Navy defeat was suffered on their home court at the hands of the Colonials.

TAKE IT FROM ME

By EDDIE SHAPIRO

LAST SATURDAY afternoon at Uline Arena, the Colonials turned in a great victory by stopping Duke's Blue Devils, 51-49.

Three of the Colonials, Dave Shapiro, Bill Cantwell, and Barry Kreisberg, were loudly praised by all who witnessed the contest. The praise was well deserved for certainly these stars played dominant roles in the Colonial victory.

But, as usual, another great performer was overlooked by the majority of the fans. It is my opinion that truly the unsung hero of the contest was Phil McNiff, and he should have received a lion's share of the plaudits.

When the chunky freshman star entered the game, the Colonials were trailing by seven points. Garland Loftis, Duke's set shot artist, had sent five straight set shots through the hoop, and it was beginning to look like the Colonials were no match for the Blue Devils.

With McNiff in the game, however, Loftis failed to score a basket. McNiff constantly menaced the Duke ball handlers and repeatedly broke up their attempts to fast break against the Colonials.

Undoubtedly his appearance on the floor brought life to his team. Five minutes after he entered the game the Colonials tied the score. The spirit which he instilled into the club together with his flawless, aggressive defensive play and deceptive passing contributed heavily to the G. W. victory.

When he left the court in the late stages of the game, the crowd sat in mute silence, but the looks of admiration on the faces of his teammates were a sure sign that his magnificent performance was not altogether forgotten.

Intramural Cage Teams Blue Devils Cantwell Nears 250; Lose Lead; Leads Varsity Scorers Buff Fourth

By MANUEL VANCENA

● WITH SUNDAY marking the last day of play in the intramural basketball leagues, top teams are vying for playoff berths. And, once again the fraternity fives are winding up the season with a bang.

Four teams are involved in the last minute scramble for a playoff bid. Most of the possible juggling rests in the hands of the Sigma Chi Quintet, and it is possible for them to eliminate Sigma Nu or Sigma Alpha Epsilon. To give a more complete picture it is necessary to cite the position of the other teams in the first four places.

To cite an example of the difficulty in predicting the outcome of this Sunday's games, this summary of the two games played last Sunday, in which the SAEs eked out a 25-24 win over the Sigma Chis and Sigma Nu set back the Kappa Sig quintet, is of interest.

It was noted in a previous issue of this paper that the first placers would meet the fourth placers and the second the third. At present, it is a good bet that at the final whistle, Theta Delta Chi will have the lead, with Sigma Chi trailing by a slim margin and Kappa Sigma and Sigma Nu sitting in the third and fourth slots respectively.

Possibilities are that if the SAE team defeats the ninth place TKE squad and the Sigma Chi outfit wins over the Sigma Nu team, the SAEs will move into the fourth place spot and gain a playoff berth while the Sigma Nus fade from the 4th place, which they have been holding precariously for the last few weeks, into the number five slot and out of the competition.

Of more than ordinary interest, is the fact that the Sigma Chis hold the fate of the SAEs and Sigma Nus. It is of little worth whether the Sigma Chis finish the season in second or third place. But it is of great interest to the Sigma Nus and the SAEs, should the Sigma Chis choose to win or lose the Sigma Nu tilt.

The outcome of that game is the premeditated choice of whom the Sigma Chis wish to meet in the first round of the playoff. Without a doubt they will choose to meet the weakest team.

The cold fact is that if Sigma Chi does not care to risk an early elimination from the playoff series, they will play their hardest to beat the Sigma Nus, because a loss this Sunday could toss them into fourth place which would pair them with Theta Delta Chi in the first round of the playoff. If the Sigma Chis take the Sigma Nus and the SAEs beat the TKEs, the final standings should run Theta Deltas, Sigma Chis, and Kappa Sigs and SAEs with the Theta Deltas meeting the SAEs and the Sigma Chis meeting the Kappa Sigs in the first round of play in the interfraternity playoff.

Although it is yet early to speculate on the All-U. game, it is certain that the Blanchard Boys will be the second team in that competition since the picture in the independent league, at this point, is entirely dominated by them.

Buff Candidates For Choice Spot

● THE SOUTHERN Conference Tournament Committee has announced that the first four teams in the league standings will receive seeded positions in the playoffs at Durham, N. C., next week.

Since the Colonials are now in fourth place, they are certain of one of the choice spots should they defeat Citadel and VMI this week.

● NORTH CAROLINA State's Wolfpack, after a pair of conference victories last week, has gained first place in the Southern Conference race.

Downing Duke 83-57 and Davidson 65-56, the Wolfpack has taken a full game lead over second place North Carolina University, while Duke, pacesetters of the loop for the most of the season, has slipped to third place.

The most drastic shakeup in the standings was caused by the George Washington Colonials who defeated Richmond, Virginia Tech, and Duke to climb from tenth to fourth spot.

Invitations for the championship tournament will be sent out and first round pairings made by the Southern Conference Tournament Committee early next week.

North Carolina State, North Carolina University, Duke and George Washington are assured of bids, while Maryland and South Carolina are very likely choices.

Waging a hot three way fight for the last two berths are Washington and Lee, Richmond, and Wake Forest.

Decisive battles to be waged this week will pit Wake Forest against Duke tonight and against Richmond Thursday night. Both contests are to be staged on the Deacons' home court.

Washington and Lee's chances depend on the outcome of their contests against Virginia Tech and William and Mary this week-end.

Phi Delta Gamma Plans Convention

● REPRESENTATIVES of the National Council of Phi Delta Gamma met with members of Beta Chapter at the home of National Treasurer, Clara G. Hiller, 3805 Legation Street, N. W., last Saturday to lay plans for the National Convention and Silver Jubilee to be held in Washington in the spring or early summer of 1948.

● BILL CANTWELL continues to pace the Colonial scorers, and, after tallying 13 points against Duke, he has increased his lead to 38 points over second place Jim Rausch.

With only three games remaining on the Colonial schedule before the Southern Conference tournament, Cantwell seems certain to remain the team's high scorer, a position which he has held all season.

The sophomore stat has not only been the scoring pacemaker, but he has also been a stellar all around performer. He is certain choice for the All-District team, and, if his play in the Southern Conference tournament is up to par, he should also attain conference honors.

Cantwell and Rausch are the only men who have tallied over 200 points so far, but Barry Kreisberg and Len Small may top the 200 mark before the season's end.

Cantwell has tallied 99 field goals to 71 for Kreisberg, his nearest competitor, and has an average of 10.86 points per game, 2.12 points better than Rausch's average.

The only department in which Cantwell does not lead is foul shooting. Rausch has made the most free tosses, 61, and has the best average from the foul line, having missed only 18 times.

The complete summary follows:

	G	FG	F	PT	Ave
Cantwell	22	99	41	239	10.86

Colonial Tankmen Vie For District Swimming Title

● ELMER R. HIPSLEY, coach of the Varsity swimming team, has announced plans to enter the Colonial tankmen in a proposed District of Columbia Intercollegiate Swimming Championship meet sometime next month.

Hipsley indicated that all colleges and universities in the District of Columbia area would be eligible to enter teams in this meet and that any male student of these schools would be allowed to compete regardless of whether or not he is a member of his varsity team.

Although the University has approved the Colonials' participation, no definite plans can be made until the other schools in the area also sanction the meet.

Departments Draw Up Mixed Athletic Plan

• WITH THE ICE finally broken by the agreement between both the men's and women's physical education departments for the pursuance of mixed sports at the University, broad plans are being drawn up for mixed competition in as many fields as possible.

The first announcement came through Joe Krupa, director of Intramural athletics, to the effect that men and women will be matched in mixed doubles for the badminton tournament scheduled for March 4, 5, and 6.

Golf, tennis, swimming, and bowling have definitely been decided upon in the co-educational setup, and should enough interest be shown, similar matches will be arranged in volleyball, pingpong, and rifle shooting.

Krupa and Elaine Turnbull of the women's physical education department have been surprised at the great amount of interest shown in a co-recreational setup. Both are going to devote all the time possible to the furtherance of their plans.

Krupa stated that "current student interest in these events has been very encouraging. I hope that in the future we will be able to expand the program to accommodate all interested students."

Registration for the badminton tournament is open until March 27. Forms are available at the Intramural Athletic Office, 2027 M Street.

Zahn To Speak To Touchdowners

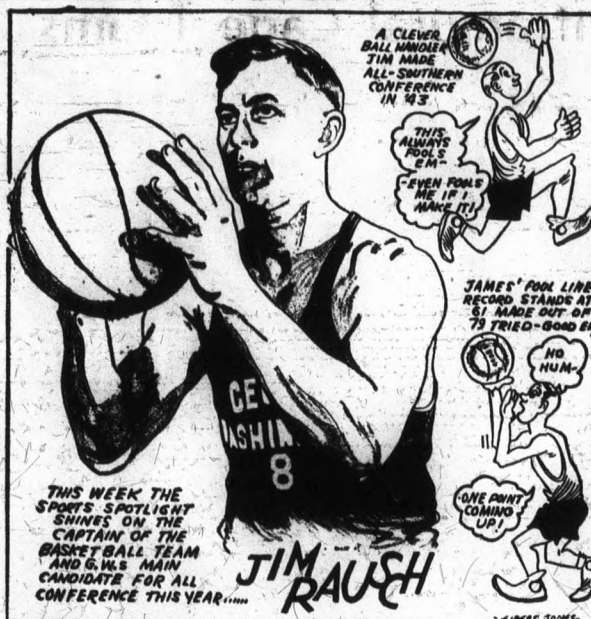

Reprinted from The Washington Star, Sunday, February 23.

• HEAD BASKETBALL coaches Arthur Zahn of George Washington, Elmer Ripley of Georgetown, Burton Shipley of Maryland, Ben Zola of Catholic University and Stafford Cassell of American University have been invited to be present as honor guests at the Touchdown Club's luncheon Tuesday at 12:30 p.m.

Zahn, whose Colonials have split two games with Georgetown and otherwise have defeated both Duke and Navy, will discuss the basketball situation locally and nationally.

Yachtsmen Card Princeton Sailors

• THE NEWLY formed University sailing team is in the process of drawing up a schedule for this season. One match, against the Princeton yachtsmen, has already been scheduled for March 23.

Staff Jobs Open For All Students

• THERE ARE many positions open on the Hatchet sports staff for both men and women who wish to write sports news.

Due to the rapidly expanding University athletic program and the increased size of the Hatchet sports section, there have been many new vacancies created for interested University students.

Any student wishing to apply for a staff position should report to the Hatchet office in Building M anytime between 4 and 8 p.m. Sunday.

• STUDIES WITH a new electronic device developed at Northwestern University may soon reveal whether there is life on Mars.

By making a more intensive study of the stars and planets, this special recorder may lead to the findings of new stars, discovery of life on several planets and information about the stars' inner mechanism.

First investigation with the recorder must be put off until summer when the planet will be visible in the sky.

• WITH THE approach of final exams, the Syracuse Daily Orange ran an ominous article which may or may not have influenced the semester grade curve.

It told how at the 700-year-old University of Naples in Italy a group of students recently beat their professor with an iron door handle because he had not given them passing marks in their examinations.

Law Student

the rightful lessee of an apartment. Cases which cannot be settled at the "counter" are tried in court.

Richard entered the legal profession because the field looked interesting and because his father was a lawyer. He said, "my plans for the future are uncertain; however, I want to continue work here and perhaps later go into private practice. I consider my job a lucky break because it is the only place I could get a combination of court practice and prosecuting experience concurrently."

Current legal procedures are his main interest. He is a member of the student editorial board of the George Washington Law Review and held the post of Justice of his legal fraternity, Phi Alpha Delta, in 1943. He was also a member of Sigma Nu Fraternity at Washington and Lee University, where he did his undergraduate work for law school.

The native Washingtonian is married and is the father of three sons, ages five, three and a new-comer only 10 days old. "This, in addition to my work and attendance at law school, is the big reason why I have no time for a hobby."
